

Nurturing Resiliency

- You believe that they have strengths (attitude)
- You identify personal strengths (you look beyond the problems)
- You teach them that they have strengths (name them, show them how they are being used, suggest how they can use them in the future)
- You give it time – you persist

Adapted from Nan Henderson, The Resiliency Training Program